

Microsoft to ship the Windows 10 May 2019 Update in late May

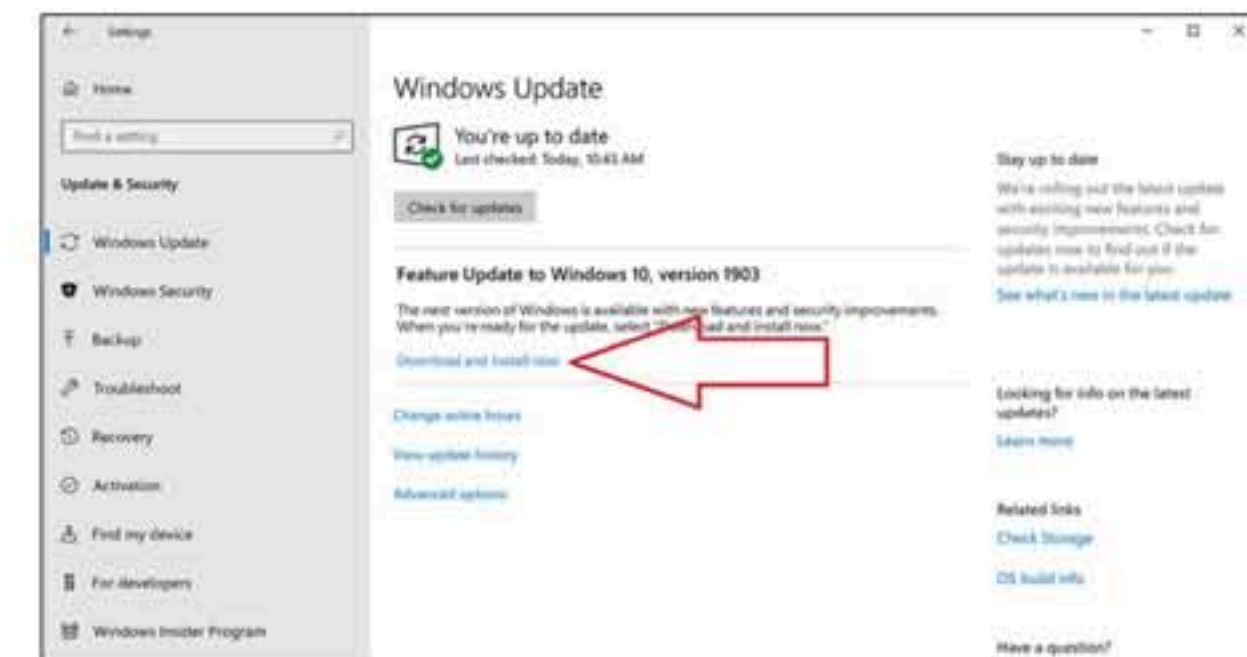

Microsoft to put more update control in the hands of users, and ensure a stable, bug-free release. MARK HACHMAN reports

Remember the Windows 10 April 2019 Update? Microsoft has now officially dubbed it the Windows 10 May 2019 Update. Also code-named '19H1', or version 1903, it will begin deploying to all PCs in late May, on a day that hasn't yet been determined. But there's something brand new: the update will specifically call out the feature release,

Microsoft to ship the Windows 10 May 2019 Update in late May

Microsoft to put more update control in the hands of users, and ensure a stable, bug-free release. MARK HACHMAN reports

Remember the Windows 10 April 2019 Update? Microsoft has now officially dubbed it the Windows 10 May 2019 Update. Also code-named '19H1', or version 1903, it will begin deploying to all PCs in late May, on a day that hasn't yet been determined. But there's something brand new: the update will specifically call out the feature release,